Holidays during term time

In St. Ronan's Primary School we actively discourage parents from taking a child on holiday during term time. It causes disruption to the child's education and means that the child is missing out on essential work which the rest of the class is doing. In some cases the child may find it very difficult to catch up on this work.

If parents do decide to take their child on holiday they should contact the Principal prior to booking the holiday to seek authorisation.

They should ensure on their return that the child tries to catch up on all work missed.

What may happen if a child does not attend regularly?

The law states that parents are responsible for ensuring their children's regular and punctual attendance at school. The staff in St. Ronan's Primary School will work with parents, providing support to assist them in getting their child to school each day and on time but if this is unsuccessful a referral will have to be made to the Education Welfare Officer. Home visits will be made by the EWO to any pupils causing concern. The EWO will try to resolve the situation by agreement but if the child's attendance fails to improve, these Officers can fine parents up to £1000 for each child who fails to attend regularly. The Education Authority also have the option of applying for an Education Supervision Order in respect of the child. It is important that parents cooperate with the school and the Education Welfare Officer in order to resolve any difficulties early before any legal action becomes necessary.

Welcome to St. Ronan's Primary School.

The information in this leaflet should help familiarise you with the Attendance Policy of the School.

Rationale:

The importance of regular school attendance and good punctuality cannot be overestimated. Regular attendance is a pre requisite to a good education and securing it is high priority for our school. By failing to attend school regularly, pupils diminish the value of education provided for them. It affects their ability to achieve their full potential and of developing social skills. Frequent lateness also has a dramatic effect on a child's education. A child who is late for school, finds it more difficult to settle that day, they miss vital work, which then has to be caught up. It also disrupts lessons for the teacher and the rest of the children in the class.

Aims:

- To encourage parents to ensure their child(ren) are at school, on time, every day the school is open, unless the reason for the absence is unavoidable.
- To work in partnership with parents to establish good attendance patterns.
- To develop a positive reward system to encourage good attendance.
- To keep parents informed about their child's attendance and punctuality.
- To encourage children to be independent and come to school every day, on time and with the correct resources.
- To liaise with the Education welfare Officer with regard to attendance.
- To improve rates of attendance for all pupils in school

Why is school attendance and punctuality important?

- It is required by law.
- Children need to attend school regularly to keep up with their work and promote social development.
- A good education will give your child the best possible start in life and enable him or her to make the best of the opportunities available.
- Children need to develop good habits in readiness for later life.
- Employers of school leavers will take into account the young person's school attendance and punctuality record before making a job offer.
- Young people who are away from school without good reason are at risk of becoming victims of crime or abuse.

- Monitor punctuality
- To work closely with the EWO to monitor attendance through SIMS.

- If their child starts avoiding school, parents and guardians should contact the school straightaway and work with them to sort things out.

- To attend school every day, arriving on time and ready for work.
